and sunny elimate of the South. It is suspected that he, during the last two or three years, has become tired a disgusted with the social system and social habits of hionable and political life in this latitude, both of the ite and colored races of the population. The brilliant ye of stock operations and "stated preachings of the spel," with plenty of the "spoils of office," which exist tan iffteen or twenty years ago, when his excellent her was Precident, our old friend Jesse Hoyt was Colorer, and John himself the very "prince of good felex," have all vanished and gone to the "tomb of the pulsts." along with the verdict of the jury, which was sught in the other day against poor Edwin Forcest, d in favor of his late beautiful wife, now the brilliant of extraordinary Madame Sinclair, the great actrees of eday.

ed extraordinary Madame Steelair, the great actress of e day.

If there should be a realization of this whispered idea, the future history of John Van Buren, we think it il be one of the happlest turns in his life. He possesshigh talents, great wit, much fine taste, admirable retee and a good deal of ordinary law, mixed in with good at long intervals; but still be has more address of skill in public life, than research or deep digging at a bar. John Van Buren is just such a manas ought he a Southern leader in Southern politics. He capit own one of the largest plantations in the South, with or or three hundred fat negroes, all as happy as the yielong. When he shall reach that point in his investing hisgraphy, he will have a scertained what we we for many years insisted on—that the abolition nome of the Northern fanatics are the merest trach that we were invented, and that the comfort, the happiness, if the social position of the African race in the South, a practiful facts in sound philosophy, which no theorists a shake, and no idealogists can convince any sensible on to be wrong for them. If John shall go South and come a wealthy planter and great states man he may to ecupy the position which the late celebrated John Calhonu left vacant, and which is yet unoccupied. In the meantime we would respectfully ask the friends our great lavorite—not the father, but the son of Kinthock—whether there is any good foundation for the ory which has been whispered of his coming destiny?

The papers are filled with political documents of the interior, and the publication of the Congressional sittings. The last act passed by the Congressmen, was the tings. The last act passed by the Congressmen, was the treaty of commerce and friendship with the French republic which they hope to see very soon approved of by Louis Napoleon. The Dominican republic was recognized several years ago, by the three most powerful powers of the world—France, the United States, and England.

The French steamer Crocodile departed from Sante Domingo, on the 26th of May, with the breaty of friendship, peace, and commerce with the French republic. She had also on beard the distinguished Dominican presbyter, Dr. Ellas Redriguez, commissioned near the government of the Pope. The Crocodile had been detained for five months in the waters of that republic, in order to take the treaty to France.

According to the reports of the above papers, Soulouque has not renounced his project of invading can e Domingo. The inhabitants of that republic are ready to give the new black emperer another strong lesson, arms in hand, and flatter themselves to repulse him overy time, if he excesses the frontier which separates the two countries.
